Paw Paw Physician Narcotic Victim ONLY MIRACLE CAN SAVE HIM DOCTORS IN CHARGE STATE

WADE STEVENS TOOK OVERDOSE OF FATAL DRUG

Body Found at Home By Visitor; Funeral Next Sunday.

Dr. Wade Stevens, a resident of Paw Paw for a period of 30 years, was found dead in a room at his home Wednesday, death resulting from an over dose of narcotic to which he has been an addict for some time, and for which he was receiving treatment. The body was discovered by Frank E. Guffin, who had gone to the Stevens home on a matter of business.

While in the home conversing with Dr. Stevens' aged mother, Mr. Guffin walked into the room where the doctor's body lay on a cot covered with bed clothing. Mrs. Stevens remarked to Mr. Guffin that she feared her son was "about to pass on" and also remarked about his health. Mr. Guffin stepped to the cot, placed his hand on the physician's head and experiencing a strange feeling, investigated and discovered that heart action had ceased.

Dr. F. H. Stettler was then notified and came to the Stevens home where he examined the body and pronounced it dead. It is believed that life had been extinct about two hours. Coroner S. J. Whetstone went to Paw Paw late Wednesday afternoon and conducted an inquisition over the remains at the Smith undertaking parlors, the jury returning a verdict finding that death was due to morphine poisoning, self administered. The jury was composed of John Harper, H. A. Knetch, A. S. Wells, J. A. Warren, L. A. Coss and Frank Wheeler.

Had Acted Strangely.

Testimony at the inquest developed the fact that Dr. Wade Stevens had been acting queerly of late, his actions about the home probably being due to the taking of narcotics. Miss Nellie Stevens, a cousin of the deceased, who came from her home at Gretna, Kas., early this month for a visit, told of his actions recently, when he appeared to be demented. He was taken from Paw Paw to the hospital at Waterman last Saturday by Dr. Stettler, who attended the Stevens family, and returned in a few days, his condition apparently being much improved.

In the testimony as given by Frank Guffin, he told of the aged mother of the deceased relating to him on Wednesday that her son had been taking "stuff" all the time and it is presumed that an over dose of some drug, probably morphine caused his death.

Dr. Stevens was 54 years, two months and 18 days of age. He had been a resident of the village for the past 30 years. When he came to Paw Paw he built up a heavy practice but for the last few years he had practically given up his profession and retired from active business life. Funeral services will be held from the Stevens home in the village Sunday afternoon at 2:30, Rev. Joseph Burrows officiating and with interment in the Paw Paw cemetery.

FUNERAL OF PIONEER RESIDENT OF CITY IS HELD THIS AFTERNOON

Mrs. Mary Hatch Last of Original Burrigh Family Here.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Hatch, who passed away at the home of her son, Harvey B. Hatch of Marquette, Mich., was held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the First Methodist Episcopal church here, of which she was a member. Rev. Aubrey Shannon Moore officiating and with interment in the family lot at Oakwood cemetery.

She was the last of the original Burrigh family.

The light of day broke in upon her life January 22, 1834, in the heavy timbered country of the old Buckeye State. When about ten years of age her folks started overland for the broad prairies of the Land of Promise, and she was a member of the first party of the time during the journey she trudged along afoot, taking her turn in driving the flock of sheep behind the prairie schooner, which formed their home enroute, and which was the ordinary means of travel in that day. They reached the broad expanse of rolling prairie and settled in Ogle county in 1844, where her father, Ashbill Burrigh, carved out of the virgin soil of the state of the immortal Lincoln, a home and an estate known throughout the entire country round about in that early day as White Oak Grove.

She was married to James Hatch, Jr., on Christmas day, 1853, and went the same day into his home as an angel of mercy, to mother four little ones whom death had suddenly bereft of their own affectionate mother. Here she lived until after husband died and her children all married and moved to other parts of the country to live and she became too feeble to stay alone, when, in 1917, she went to live with her son, Harvey Burrigh Hatch at Marquette, Michigan, where she died January 17, 1922, 88 years old.

Hers was an eventful life. Father Dixon was still active in the

JUDGE CRABTREE GIVES KENNEDY $1,000 PENALTY

He Pleaded Guilty to Transportation of Liquors.

John F. Kennedy of Nelson, a Deputy Sheriff of Lee County and a business man of Nelson, was fined $1,000 and costs, the maximum fine, by Judge John B. Crabtree, in the county court yesterday afternoon after he had pleaded guilty of the charge of transporting intoxicating liquor.

Judge Crabtree delivered his verdict after reminding Kennedy that he was an officer of the county court and that his violation of the law was a magnified offense due to the fact that he was sworn to uphold and enforce the law himself.

Mr. Kennedy went into court with State's Attorney Mark Keller, who informed Judge Crabtree that Mr. Kennedy had told him that he had decided to plead guilty and waive jury trial, throwing himself upon the mercy of the court. Before accepting the plea of guilty, Judge Crabtree warned Kennedy that his offense as an officer of the court was an especially serious one and called for substantial punishment, that the law provided fines of from $100 to $1,000, and that a jail sentence was also possible.

State's Attorney Keller stated that he agreed with the court that the violation was of such a nature that it called for punishment beyond the ordinary offense.

After the delivery of the sentence State's Attorney Keller told The Telegraph reporter that he was "certainly pleased with the action of our county court."

The plea of guilty concerned only the charge of transporting liquor. Mr. Kennedy denied having sold any intoxicants.

Wolfe Gave Bond.

During the afternoon Dan Wolfe was arraigned in court by Deputy John Gaffney, who had arrested him on a state warrant charging violation of the anti-liquor laws, and the prisoner gave bond in the sum of $1,000 for his appearance when called. Wolfe is also under a bond of like amount to appear before the April Federal Grand jury in Freeport for alleged violation of the Volstead act.

Judge John B. Crabtree in the county court today set the trial list for the liquor cases, which were the result of the raid of two weeks ago conducted under the direction of the state's attorney's office. The trial list as arranged today is as follows:

Jan. 21—People vs Adam Fazzal.

Feb. 1—People vs Leonard and Dorothy Woodyatt.

Feb. 2—People vs Constanidin Gredinar.

Feb. 3—People vs Dan Wolfe.

Feb. 4—People vs John Neives.

METHODISTS OF LEE COUNTY HAD SESSION IN DIXON YESTERDAY

Interesting and Helpful Discussion of Church Problems Resulted.

The annual meeting of the Methodists of Lee County, held Thursday afternoon and evening at the Methodist church in this city, resolved itself in the afternoon into a Round Table meeting, which was very interesting and was participated in by all the ministers in the county. The snow and cold kept the laymen at home and the local congregation was only fairly represented.

The ministers from the county present were: Rev. R. O. Bates, Harmon; Rev. J. S. Foard, Ashton; Rev. J. J. Burrows, Paw Paw; Rev. Warren Hutchison, Franklin Grove; Rev. and Mrs. Frank Day, Steward; Rev. and Mrs. M. D. Bayly, Amboy, and Rev. Samuel Taylor of Compton. Dr. Thomas K. Gale, district superintendent of Chicago, was present and presided at all of the sessions.

Rev. Burrows led the singing. Dr. E. E. Higley of Chicago, Dr. W. C. Terrill of Africa, and each of the county ministers took an active part in all of the afternoon discussions. Dr. Claude S. Moore, former district superintendent, who made Dixon his home during his term as presiding official of this district, was unable to be present much to the regret of all concerned.

Dr. Higley's Address.

Rev. Higley, superintendent of Indian missions, was listened to with considerable interest. He is full of his subject.

Dr. Higley said in part:

"Methodism's missionary work began in an Indian village. Methodism's early journey across the continent was in behalf of the Red Man, and its first missions beyond the mountains were Indian Missions."

"The last General Conference recommended the correlation of all the Indian work of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension and the Woman's Home Missionary Society."

"Methodist Indian Missions are located all the way from the St. Lawrence River to Yuma, Arizona, and from Puget Sound to North Carolina. The Methodist Indian Missions and working from thirty-eight different centers and are serving twenty-eight Indian tribes. The Indian Mission work employs forty-one pastors, eleven of whom are Indians, two school superintendents, seven teachers, two house matrons, three field matrons, and have three religious work directors in government schools."

"The church of evangelism has one minister constantly at work evangelizing the Indians."

"The Methodist Episcopal church has 1643 communicants, and 1724 at its Sunday school and has property valued at $106,000."

"A recent survey shows better supervision of Indian Missions is necessary. Methodism must take more seriously to heart the task of Indian evangelism. Many American Indians are pagans. There are 50,000 American Indians for whom mission work is not being done."

"We need better and more concentrated type of Indian Missions if we would achieve better things for the Indian. Better salaries must be paid to win and hold workers of ability. The forty-one ministers serving Indian Missions are paid an average of about $60 per year. There are nine other Protestant churches who pay their missionaries higher salaries. The Centenary movement has made it possible for Methodism to place a number of high paid missionaries. Work among the Indians needs to be of the highest type to appeal to the young people returning home from school. These young people rejoice when they find a church projecting a community program which help to solve the problem of 'returning to the blanket.'"

"Unexpected post-war conditions have placed unforeseen demands upon us for financial help. These were 10,000 Indian young men who served in the army and navy. Many of these young men have returned and are asking for an opportunity to become themselves trained leaders and teachers of their own people. Three of these boys are asking to be trained and sent to their people as missionaries. The Centenary fund is helping to make this possible. Indian girls are also willing to serve as missionaries to their own people."

Bronchial Affection is Spreading to Pontiff's Lungs.

Rome, Jan. 20.—(By the Associated Press)—Pope Benedict's life hangs in the balance today. It was expressed at the Vatican here today that His Holiness was in a dying condition.

During the early hours of this morning, towards 4 a. m. there was a sudden change for the worse and the bronchial affection from which His Holiness had been suffering for several days, spread to his lungs.

The Pontiff asked for and received the last sacrament, insisting on this, "if only to give a good example," he said, despite attempts by his attendants to dissuade him.

The Pope's physicians were in conversation at the Vatican at an early hour, and the morning bulletin issued afterwards indicated an extremely serious condition. Dr. Battistini, however, stated then that while the condition of His Holiness was grave, it was not hopeless.

Received Eucharist

About 11 o'clock in the morning, however, the Pope's condition became aggravated and the administration of oxygen was begun. At 11:30 o'clock the Eucharist was solemnly carried to him.

Meanwhile, prayers were being said in all the churches and Catholic institutions of Rome, on behalf of His Holiness and great crowds began to assemble in St. Peter's.

Today's sudden change for the worse in the Pontiff's condition seemed to have come as a great surprise, even to those who had been observing him most closely. Last evening, he received some strengthening injections, and the doctors then stated they were satisfied with his condition, expressing hope that danger of an extension of the inflammation of the lungs had passed and saying the crisis appeared to be overcome.

One of the most disturbing conditions that developed early today seemed to be passing away after 10 o'clock this morning as the pontiff was then able to expectorate slightly. This aroused more hope among the watchers, but towards 11 o'clock he became worse again and oxygen then was administered.

Upon leaving the papal apartment, the cardinals who administered extreme unction said the Pope's mind was perfectly clear but that his condition was so grave that only a miracle could save him.

Monsignor Zampini, Sacristan of the Apostolic Palace; Monsignor Carlo Respighi, the Pontifical Prefect of Ceremonies, and Monsignor Mogone, the Private Chamberlain, were at the Pope's bedside.

Doctor Hopeful

There was an air of deep anxiety and apprehension about the Vatican, where many of the cardinals were waiting in an anti-chamber, all the cardinals in Italy having assembled in Rome on receiving word of the Pope's serious illness. The doctors after this morning's conversation did not conceal the gravity of the Pontiff's condition although Prof. Marchiafava took a more hopeful view than his colleagues.

Later Cardinal Gasparri, the papal secretary of state, telegraphed all the ambassadors advising them of the seriousness of the Pope's condition, while urgent telegrams were sent to Pope Benedict's relatives at Genoa, Piacenza.

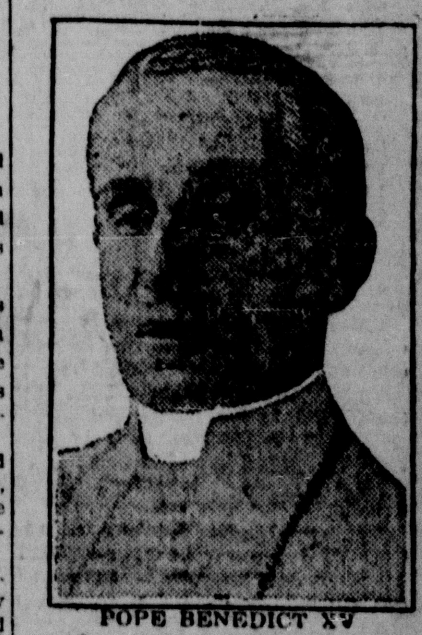

Shortly after 11 o'clock, Monsignor Zampini, the Sacristan of the Palace, accompanied by the cardinals went to the papal chapel and took the sacrament to the Pope. The cortege was preceded by four of the papal guards, carrying lighted candles, four chair bearers and four uniformed private guards, the cardinals following. Cardinal Gasparri and Monsignor Zampini were weeping. The cortege proceeded to the papal apartment, which was entered only by the cardinals and few of the palace prelates. Those who were waiting in the ante-chamber tolled their heads as the procession passed to the Pope's bedside, where extreme unction was administered to His Holiness.

Pope Was Conscious

Pope Benedict, retaining the clear consciousness, followed with deep emotion the reading of the formula of the profession of faith by Cardinal Giorgi. After receiving the communion, he said to Cardinal Sili:

"I beg you to remember me to the Virgin of Pompeii."

Rome, Jan. 20.—5:10 p. m.—(By the Associated Press).—The Pope at this hour is still showing resistance against the progress of his malady.

TURNING POINT TONIGHT.

Rome, Jan. 20.—6:40 p. m.—(By the Associated Press).—Pope Benedict's condition was grave this evening, but the pneumonia had not spread further, it was announced.

This Pontiff's temperature was given at this hour as 101, pulse 104, respiration 60.

The physicians gave their patient another examination shortly after noon, after which Dr. Marchiafava said the Pope's condition was very grave, but not desperate. He thought the turning point would occur tonight.

The Swiss guards stood at attention on the third floor of the huge palace and rigidly enforced orders for absolute silence. Scarlet-coated ushers were on hand everywhere, enjoining questioning callers to remain quiet. It was difficult, however, to prevent small groups from gathering about the attendant cardinals, whispering their hopes for the best.

A Mission school for Navajo children, there is dire need of two new buildings. There are now 9,000 children of school age in this reservation, but there are only 2,000. There are 7-8,000 children of school age with no outlook save that of a life of ignorance.

The Centenary has purchased a 35-acre farm adjoining the Mission property and from its income has greatly reduced the cost of providing food for the children in the school. This farm also affords opportunity for the industrial training.

The Cocopah Chief at the close of a religious service said, "My hair is long. (Meaning I am very old.) You have come too late for some of us, but we want you to teach our children and point them the way of the Jesus road."

"What is necessary is trained women to visit the homes and interpret the ministry to Indian mothers in terms of soap and sanitation, home keeping, and child training. Three women missionaries are already at work among the Navajo, the Nooksac, and the Klamath."

Following Dr. Higley's interesting address, Dr. Gale in a statement to the ministers declared that the imperative work for 1922 is the completion of the Centenary World Program of Intercession, Evangelism, Stewardship and Accepted Financial Goals, the fulfillment of which required annual offerings to God totaling $25,000,000 for each year of the five year period. He declared that in the vocabulary of Methodism there is no such word as fail. "Our Divine Leader is with us, and under His guidance and with His help the confident expectation of the peoples of all lands must and shall be met," declared Dr. Gale.

"The Centenary is not an end, only a beginning. It was never intended to be other than one in a series of advances for the purpose of realizing the Kingdom of God in the earth. World conditions emphasize new needs and compel new and enlarged programs. Today in the city of Washington the Nations of the world are planning the longest for time when the war drum shall throb no longer and the battle flags shall be furled. The hope for the embodiment of this international ideal in the life of the world is largely with the churches. The work already accomplished by Methodism has placed the heart of the world in a sympathetic touch with her ideals. The hour has struck in which to consolidate our gains and stage the next advance."

"In preparation for this advance, we recommend a new study, in cooperation with and through the constituent boards of the entire field at home and abroad to the end that the total task of Methodism, local and world wide may be visualized and set before the church. A program of evangelism employing and vitalizing all the normal agencies of the church for deepening and quickening the religious life and the spiritual passion of every member of the church. Such an aggressive and intensive program as will make each member an Evangelist with restless zeal for Christian conquest. A program of education carried first to the quarterly conference then through the quarterly conference to even the smallest and most remote church, with the purpose of informing the entire membership with respect to the scope and purpose of all our benevolent enterprises. Such a program to be regarded not as a means to a financial goal but as an end in itself. The inculcation of the doctrine of Christian Stewardship, Stewardship of life, of substance, of prayer as essential to the complete Christian life and not merely as a means for financing the program of the church. The enlistment of the laity of the church officials and non-official in the ideals and program of the church. For this purpose we earnestly urge the use of the Unit System and the mobilization of all lay forces for aggressive and efficient service."

"We recommend the creation of a Committee of twenty-five members, lay and clerical, of which at least, fifteen shall be members of the council of Boards of Benevolence. This Committee shall be appointed by the President of the Council, the chairman of the executive committee, and the chairman of the Committee on Conservation and Advance acting jointly. Said committee in consultation with the president of the council, the chairman of the executive committee, the corresponding secretary, and the treasurer shall take all necessary steps to carry out the recommendations hereby adopted."

"To this committee shall be submitted not later than Jan. 1, 1923, the results of the study heretofore provided for, and on the basis of this submitted study, the committee shall prepare program of advance for presentation to the council at its annual meeting in June 1923, or at a special meeting called for the purpose at as early a date as may be practicable."

"We recommend that the constitution of the Centenary be amended to read: 'The Centenary shall be a series of advances for the purpose of realizing the Kingdom of God in the earth. World conditions emphasize new needs and compel new and enlarged programs. Today in the city of Washington the Nations of the world are planning the longest for time when the war drum shall throb no longer and the battle flags shall be furled. The hope for the embodiment of this international ideal in the life of the world is largely with the churches. The work already accomplished by Methodism has placed the heart of the world in a sympathetic touch with her ideals. The hour has struck in which to consolidate our gains and stage the next advance.'"

"In preparation for this advance, we recommend a new study, in cooperation with and through the constituent boards of the entire field at home and abroad to the end that the total task of Methodism, local and world wide may be visualized and set before the church. A program of evangelism employing and vitalizing all the normal agencies of the church for deepening and quickening the religious life and the spiritual passion of every member of the church. Such an aggressive and intensive program as will make each member an Evangelist with restless zeal for Christian conquest. A VERSE FROM THE BOOK OF MARK—

And Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the good news of the Kingdom of God, and saying: The time is fulfilled, and the Kingdom of God is at hand; repent ye, and believe the good news.—Mark 1:13, 14.

God give us men! A time like this demands

Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands;

Men whom the love of money cannot buy,
Men who possess opinions and a will,
Men who have honor and who will not lie.

—J. G. Holland.

SUNSHINE CLASS HAD MEETING—

The thirty-five members and friends who braved the cold last evening to attend the monthly meeting of the Sunshine Class, were rewarded by a most delightful evening at the home of Mrs. Cora George, 519 Crawford avenue.

The assistant hostesses were Mrs. Jennie Wickey, Mrs. Edith Slot-hower, and Mrs. Margaret Petersen. After the usual devotional and business features, the committee who had been asked to visit the Nachusa Orphanage gave their report, which resulted in the unanimous decision of the class to clothe and care for one of the children at the home, a little boy of seven, the little girl whom they had previously, having left and therefore needing them no longer.

The nominating committee also reported, and the following officers were elected:

President—Mrs. Nettie Coakley.
Vice President—Mrs. Carrie Breckener.

Secretary—Mrs. Lizzie Lindsey.
Class Secretary—Mrs. Anna K. Esterley.

Treasurer—Mrs. Cora George.
Teacher—Mrs. Mary L. Kay.

Associate Teacher—Miss Ethel M. Kay.

Committee Chairman—Membership, Mrs. Sadie Winters; Religious, Mrs. Jennie Wickey; Social, Mrs. Augusta Martinson; Literature, Mrs. Jennie Rees; Flower, Mrs. Ellen Nosworthy; Reception, Mrs. Blanche Howell; Publicity, Mrs. Mayme Hinds.

The February meeting is the Class Anniversary, and plans were made for its celebration. The installation of officers will take place in March.

Miss Edith Gramp favored the class with a very beautiful piano solo, and Miss Marjorie Slotower gave several vocal selections in her usual capable manner, at different times during the evening. This music was very much enjoyed. The hostesses served dainty refreshments.

WORK OF MRS. MEYERS IS PRAISED—

The second semi-annual convention of the Woman's Home Missionary society was held at the Ashton Methodist Episcopal church Saturday, Jan. 14th. The opening song was full of inspiration, the same song that was sung at the national convention.

In the program given much space in the Ashton Gazette Mrs. C. H. Meyers is given much praise. The paragraph follows:

Mrs. Meyers of Dixon gave the report of the children's work. Total membership 218. Her slogan for the coming year was "No Childless Auxiliary in Joliet-Dixon District." She urged each society to get a band of children together with an enthusiastic leader and you will be surprised at the results. Just as she was about to take her seat Mrs. F. E. Clendenen stepped forward and after paying Mrs. Meyers (past president) a very wonderful tribute for her untiring efforts, presented her with a "Perpetual Membership to the W. H. M. S." from the Auxiliaries.

MRS. GEARHART ENTERTAINED DELIGHTFULLY—

Mrs. O. L. Gearhart entertained in a most delightful manner Wednesday afternoon with three tables of five hundred honoring her sister, Mrs. T. C. Saunders of Greenwood, Miss., who has been her house guest for the past week.

After playing several games, Mrs. Lyman Booth was awarded first prize, the consolation prize falling to Mrs. O. F. Goeke. Dainty little guest prizes were awarded to Mrs. Stella Baker MacKay of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Charles Houghton of Boston, Mass. who were out of town guests.

PRACTICAL CLUB WAS ENTERTAINED—

The Practical club held a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. A. Ahrens, 319 Peoria avenue. After the business meeting Mrs. Charles Keyes gave an interesting reading on "The Famous Spies in America," by George Brown.

Mrs. Homer Senneff gave several interesting current events, after which a social hour followed. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess, concluding a delightful meeting.

PROGRESSIVE FIVE HUNDRED PARTY—

Last evening the Minnie Bell Rebekah lodge entertained with a progressive five hundred party in I. O. O. F. hall which was attended by seventy-five guests who had courage enough to brave the wrath of the North Wind. A very happy evening resulted.

Progressive five hundred was the game for the evening but some of the gentlemen decided in favor of pinochle, so they were allowed to play pinochle for the evening. Dr. Marion White was awarded the ladies' first prize and Frank Spiller was awarded the gentlemen's first prize. After the diversion for the evening, the committee served tempting refreshments, completing a most enjoyable evening.

AN APPEAL FOR WARM CLOTHING—

An appeal for warm clothing has come to the Home Missionary society of the Methodist church for a frontier missionary, wife and four children. The children are three girls, 12, 10 and 7 years; and a little boy of 5. The mother is five feet, five inches in height, her bust is 40 and waist 31 inches. These measurements are given so that anyone who would like to assist in filling a nice box may do so. The box is to be sent the first of next week and particulars may be had by conferring with Mrs. Lester Street, phone No. K1189.

IF YOU ARE WELL BREED—

You will not issue invitations to a "house party" for "a few days." Rather, it is proper to state the length of time the guests are expected to stay.

You will assume nothing when entertaining a "house party." It is poor taste to appear wealthier, better born or in better social position than you really are.

You will have plans all set, before an entertainment in your home, that you may be free to devote your time to your guests.

NEIGHBOURLY CLASS MEETS TUESDAY—

The Neighbourly Class of the M. E. Sunday school will hold its annual meeting for the election of officers at the home of Charles Klepinger, the teacher of the class, 207 East Boyd street, Tuesday evening, Jan. 24th, at 7:30. The husbands of the members are invited to the meeting also.

DEVELOPE AGREEABLE CHARACTERISTICS—

You can develop your lovable qualities just as easily as you can your disagreeable characteristics. The former bring joy and comfort to yourself and friends, where the latter bring worry and discomfort of yourself and all your associates. Add your little mite to make the world right.

PHIDIAN ART CLUB TUESDAY—

The members of the Phidian Art club will meet next Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 24th, with Mrs. Jos. Petersberger, 209 Crawford avenue, and a large attendance is desired. Mrs. George Steele will give the paper for the afternoon, "The Prophets of the Divided Kingdom."

MISS ROSSBROOK TO LEAVE FOR VISIT—

Miss Nonie Rossbrook will leave Saturday for a visit in Chicago, Richmond, Ill., and Faribault, Minn.

TO RESIDE AT ROSSBROOK HOME—

Miss Mary Wynn will make her home with Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Rossbrook of East First street.

W. R. C. MEETS MONDAY—

The members of the W. R. C. will meet Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in G. A. R. hall, in regular meeting.

THE WOMAN OF POISE.

Once a rarity, is now to be observed and admired upon every hand. Indeed, so other women can flourish long in the midst of this modern, complicated life. In the home, in business, in social life, the woman who is serene and confident wins, while the nervous, flustered individual wastes her talents and gets nowhere. Of course, poise is dependent mainly upon sound health and steady nerves. If you feel that you are being kept back in this way, why not turn to that great woman's remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which was manufactured from a thorough understanding of the nervous system of women?—Adv.

ALL FOR A PURPOSE

Wets in Chicago and the other big cities "point with pride" to the record that there were more arrests for drunkenness in 1921 than back in the wet years. The wets have a big advantage over the drys when it comes to making these statistics. In wet years, sympathetic police forces made few arrests for drunkenness, and they were justified in their leniency, for didn't the men buy their booze in legalized saloons? So as a rule the inebriates were quietly escorted to their homes, the police found the key-holes for them, and they went in and thrashed their wives and children with the greatest of freedom.

Now, however, in these legally-dry times, the attitude of the average big city policeman has changed. He is "agin" prohibition. He wants to discredit it, and back of him, as a rule, is the city administration, which wants fast saloon license money back. So the policeman feels that it is up to him to arrest every booze individual he sees. That accounts in most cities for the excessive number of arrests now for drunkenness, compared with the years when the saloons were licensed to sell liquors.

We are hearing a lot about how prohibition failed to prohibit in the big city new year celebrations. It is said, for instance, that two hundred dry sleuths failed to keep New York dry when not only bottles but guns and knives were wielded and a number of people poisoned by the use of bootleg hooch. A big sensation is made of this "failure" in a city which in wet times used to have as much or more of whisky murders and de-lauchery practically 365 nights in the year, instead of only one or two. William H. Anderson, head of the Anti-Saloon league, who lives in New York and was an observer of the doings there, reports: "Although wetter than the Sahara desert, New York was far dryer New Year's Eve than it has been on other holidays." He added, "Conditions in the freest place in the country on the freest night of the year showed a big improvement over any previous new-year eve since enactment of the Volstead act."

"And 'veteran police officers' in Cincinnati are out with a tabulation of figures to demonstrate that crime, vice and drunkenness has immensely increased in that city since enactment of the dry law. It's the arrests that have increased, not the number of crimes. It's all for a purpose.

Let the arrests for drunkenness go on. But make the minimum fine not less than $50 for a first offense and $100 for each subsequent "time."

WORK AND THRIFT

The year 1922 will be one of steady progress toward those normal conditions which in America always imply prosperity, but only men and concerns that actually earn success will reap it. Work and thrift will be the only paths to prosperity. This is the message from a prominent banker.

What little progress has been made in the business world back to stability is not the result of any big or spectacular events. It is the result of a year of business retrenchment, of careful, economical operation, systematic work and thrift. The business which have been saved from failure have been saved by this means. There is money in the banks once more to be had for justifiable enterprises, only because men stopped extravagant spending and wasteful methods of production and by this means saved the money to pay off their debts and take up their notes.

Not by luck nor by favor, by fictitious prices or fictitious wages, will the progress be continued, but solely by work and thrift, more work and more thrift. The cumulative result will reward the effort.

MALE INDEPENDENCE

It has been suggested many times that economic independence for men men would ruin them for domesticity and break up happy families. It was left for the thoughtful Chinese to look at the other side of the picture and see what effect would be of letting the husband develop his talents for cookery and housework.

According to an interview, Admiral Tsai Ting-Kan of the Chinese navy says that when a man finds out he can cook, he becomes independent of his wife. This, says the admiral, is "fatal."

The admiral was probably poking a little fun, in his quiet Chinese way, at some of the modern western notions; but after the fashion of his race, his wit is based on modern wisdom. Permanent happiness in any relationship comes not from independence but from interdependence, warmly recognized and mutually cherished.

Some wives can follow a business outside of the home and some husbands can cook their own meals, and still not break that delicate combination. But before adventuring too far upon the sea of individual independence, it is well to know what even the Chinese think of us.

PEOPLE WANT WHAT IS DUE

A Washington correspondent says that congress is looking at foreign debt collection from the standpoint of practical politics. That means, of course, that congressmen will be guided in their attitude toward the debt by what they think the people back home really want done. That is all there is to the phrase "practical politics." A congressman stays in office only so long as he translates into legislation the wishes of his constituents. It is well understood in the halls of the capitol that what the people are thinking about chiefly is the welfare of their individual businesses, and the effect thereon of federal taxation. Every business man knows that his taxes would be reduced if foreign governments that owe us money would pay us even a low rate of interest at regular periods and if provision was made that they should begin making payments on the principal say in ten years from now. The problem is simple enough. The American people want to know that what is due them is going to be paid ultimately, and that in the meantime we are to receive interest on the debt at a stated rate. The American congress, if it acts on what the people want, must and will refuse to cancel the debts, and will make an arrangement with the debtor nations for payment of both interest and principal, keeping in view the fact that these nations must be given ample time to recover from the effects of the war. The first necessary step by congress is to grant the request of President Harding to empower him to appoint a commission to make the needed agreements.

THE AUTOMOBILE OUTLOOK

The New York automobile show is reported as drawing bigger and more enthusiastic crowds than ever, with liberal purchasing. Dealers feel warranted in predicting a good year for their business.

It is a promising indication for many reasons. A public actively interested in motor cars can hardly be down to its last dollar, and of the sale of cars is good means that every line of business which leads up to the sale is benefited.

Perhaps best of all is the fact that what was a badly administered and inflated business in many respects is being put rapidly upon a basis which combines economy in production with good value. The buying market is also more stable. People are beginning to demand economy of operation and lasting qualities in their cars. It is probable, too, that fewer people who can not afford it will add their uncertain credit to the situation.

The automobile business is one of the most tremendous factors in American industry. When it sounds the keynote of soundness and prosperity the outlook brightens.

CUPID'S ARM

How many Americans, more than 50 years old, are unmarried? About 2,000,000, reports the census bureau. It estimates that only 100,000 of them will ever marry.

Is Cupid losing his aim? Probably not. Chances are, the percentage of the population that goes through life single is about the same as ever. Love and marriage are instinctive, and instinct requires more than a decade or century to change it.

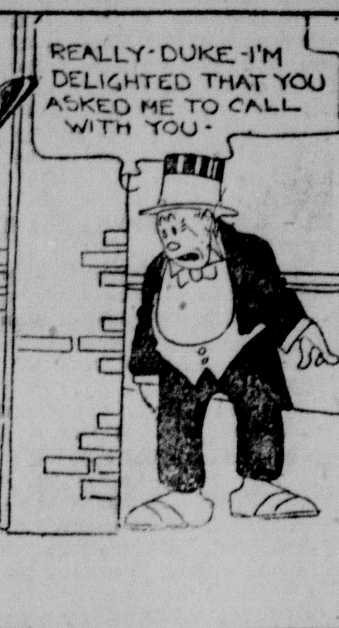

One thing is certain and the census shows it: The age of marriage is being raised. Not like grandma's day, when 16-year-old brides were not unusual.

About 10 per cent of our women marry before 20. A tenth of these are widowed or divorced within a few months. Men marry later in life than women, more than half of them waiting until after they're 30.

STOMACHACHE

Common Sense Ways to Keep Well

Stomachache, like headache, is always a symptom. In young people the chief cause is indigestion in diet. Eating too much starchy food that is often imperfectly digested or eating indigestible food, pastry and confectionery, as candy, causes an excessive flow of gastric juice. The drinking of a large amount of ice water may check digestion.

Aside from simple indigestion, stomachache may be caused by gallstone colic, ulcer of the stomach, or even cancer, though in many cases of cancer there is no pain. Pain in the large intestines may feel like a stomachache.

Relief will come when the stomach is emptied of its contents, undigested food and toxins, by forced vomiting. Persistent, recurring stomachache that does not yield to simple treatment such as the correction of diet should be carefully investigated by a stomach specialist.

One cannot be too often cautioned to be careful in eating. Form the habit of chewing your food carefully and thoroughly. Never eat immediately following an emotional strain. Anger, fear and worry cause indigestion, chronic constipation and severe attacks of stomachache.

There is a multitude of ill we may inflict on our stomach before we get as far as a stomachache. When a stomachache follows a heavy meal it is fairly certain that it is due to indigestion.

CONFESSIONS OF A MOVIE STAR

Chapter LXXVII

I GET A NEW KIND OF KISS

"You don't understand, May! I can say no more!"

"I can—I do understand! And I can put your doubt into words!" I stormed. "You believed that I couldn't possibly have arrived, I couldn't be a star in the McManus constellation—and remain—the girl—you could marry!"

And then came Jimmy Alcott's reply to my daring!

I was seized suddenly in his arms. My head was on his shoulder, his kiss was on my lips. And it was totally different from any kiss I had endured in the movies.

I forgot myself. Forgot my blinded eyes. Forgot everything except the security of Jimmy's arms and the tenderness of Jimmy's kiss.

I did not see myself as acting a part in a play.

I forgot my pride. I whispered:

"It wasn't fair to you, Jimmy! I haven't been fair! I tried to convince myself that you couldn't act your bad parts so marvellously if you were not yourself cruel at heart!"

And then a horrid memory chilled me. I escaped from his arms and dared again:

"Ginette! She wrote you daily at the camp!"

"My dear! My very dear! Ginette was out of a job. And going to London! She persecuted me for names of cinema companies!"

I held out my hands, Jimmy seized them and we talked softly until the buzz of the phone brought us back to the realities of the time and the place.

Jimmy answered the call. It was from the specialist's office. His secretary sent word that the doctor would be with me in half an hour. My nurse must be in attendance to take off all the bandages.

"It makes no difference what his verdict may be?"

"I am pledged, May!"

"It makes no difference to you if I must go the rest of my days with a broad red band down one cheek? No difference if I grope in my grave with a cane? No difference if I hide behind black glasses with huge rims? You love beauty as much as Cissy loves it. Think, Jimmy! There may be years and years of ugliness and helplessness for me!"

"You talked as if it mattered! As if anything mattered except the sweetness and the cleanliness of your soul!"

He would have taken me in his arms again but I motioned him away: "Wait for the doctor's verdict!"

"I'm not going to leave the house. I'll wait down in the drawing room." Then he went out of the room and I caught my breath hard. I had decided my future for myself; Never would I know the comfort of his arms again—if my beauty were gone forever.

I had my own pride. (To Be Continued) (Copyright, 1921, NEA Service)

Berton Braley's Daily Poem AS ONE DAD SEES IT

I do not want my children to think of me with awe. A stern dogmatic parent who se very word is law.

But rather as an older pal w hose wide experience Has given to him, by and la rge, a modicum of sense.

Then they can take my couns el and see that it is fair And in whatever they may d o I'll have a chance to share;

I hope that they can say of me—I ask no sweeter fame—"Father is a sportsman and he always plays the game!"

or the precept would be vain Unless my own example mad e the lesson very plain.

I can't do otherwise if I wou ld hear my children claim "Father is a sportsman and he always plays the game!"

From crooked deals in busin ess, from doubtful devious tricks, From slightly questionable a cts in trade and politics,

From various hypocrites and sophistries and lies Which what we call society too often justifies—

From these, dear Lord, deliv er me; I want my kids to say "The old man made a record which we needn't hide away,

He didn't ask for favors and he faced life as it came. Father was a sportsman and he always played the game!"

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Berton

LAND OF EVERYTHING.

Nothing remained but the boots themselves.

Nancy and Nick went home after the visit to Soap-Bubble Land with Buskins, because Buskins said that he had an important engagement and would have to leave them. "But if you come out to the orchard tomorrow," he promised them, "I shall meet you under the apple-tree and we'll take a ride up into the sky in our little elevator and see more wonders. Although, dear knows, you may see nothing at all, because the place I wish to take you to next is sometimes called Emptyland. But sometimes it is also called the Land of Everything, depending entirely upon Whizzy Tomorrow. If Whizzy has been at his tricks, blowing things sky high off the earth, you may see everything from milk bottle to barn doors.

"That's where I am going now, to see if there is plenty of room for the poor things to come to when Whizzy gets after them. We fairies keep it cleaned out the very best we can." Buskins had been shrinking into his high boots all the time he was talking, and now nothing remained but the boots themselves, and with a little shake they were gone, too.

The Twins didn't forget what the little fairyman had said, so bright and early next morning they were out under the apple-tree. The Magic Mushroom appeared with Buskins, and bringing the Green Shoes. "And I think that I'd better give you another language charm, kiddies," said their dear old friend. "Here you are!" And as he had done a long time before, he gave the children another piece of the pink lining of his round hat.

When he was gone, the Twins wished themselves up into the little elevator-house at once, followed instantly by Buskins. As before, the little car rose smoothly up between clouds of pink and white blossoms, right into the sky.

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY

Today's word is DEBENTURE.

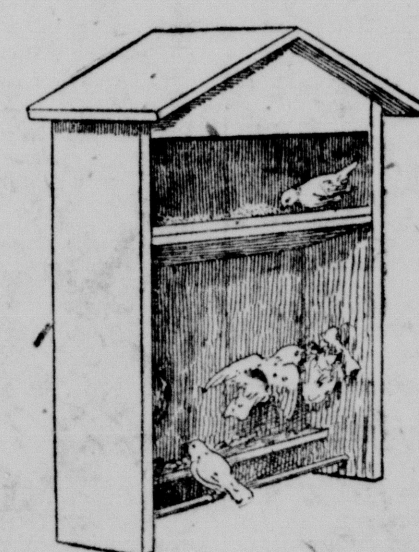

It's pronounced—deh-ben-shure with the accent on the second syllable. It means—a certificate showing money is owed, signed by the debtor.

It comes from—Latin "debentur," they owe.

It is used like this—"The allies will issue debentures for the money they owe the United States."

The wise man of Dixon says that after a friend takes you apart you are often broke.

It is time to cut the bread.

FEEDING BOXES FOR WINTER BIRDS

It's a kindly act to feed the birds that winter with us and it is a great satisfaction to see how they appreciate it. In return, the birds rid the trees and shrubbery of insects which are slumbering in the bark awaiting warm weather to start their injurious activities. Nail one of our Feeding Boxes to a tree or post, put suet on the hooks provided for it and grated cheese on the shelves. You will be surprised how many interesting birds will visit it.

The STEP on the STAIRS.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The report of a revolver, followed by hurrying footsteps on the stairs, causes Detective Barry and his friend, Professor Semyonov, to rush from the later's rooms on the fifth floor of a New York apartment house. They discover the body of beautiful Miriam Vane, society portrait painter in her studio apartment on the third floor. Ladd, a young artist on the second floor, Griswold, an irascible bachelor on the fourth, and Patricia Shaw, a magazine writer on the sixth deny having heard the shot. Miss Shaw, the first interviewed, says that she knew Miss Vane very slightly and had not been in her studio for three weeks.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Let's have a talk, then, with the affable gentleman on the floor below," Barry suggested. "I'll wager he won't take so long this time to answer a summons."

The unmusical snores still sounded from the rear of Henry Griswold's apartment as they reached his floor, but with a word to the officer on guard, Barry knocked peremptorily on the door and announced in loud tones:

"Police headquarters! Sergeant, if he doesn't open the door in three minutes, break it down!"

The snoring ceased instantly in a sound between a squeal and a grunt. The next instant there came a rattle of bolts and the door was flung open to disclose Griswold's lanky frame clad in a scant nightshirt, with a skullcap upon his grizzled head.

"What the devil do you mean?" he began furiously, but Craig, at a gesture from Barry, stepped forward.

"I'm the detective assigned from headquarters to investigate the murder on the floor just below you here tonight, sir, and I'd like a word with you," he said gruffly. "If you don't want to answer my questions I'll call the wagon and you can come down-town and talk to the chief."

"Well, shut the door behind you, both of you, and sit down unless you want to call in the whole police department!" exclaimed Griswold. "I suppose I can put on a dressing gown."

He turned and padded off toward his bedroom with Craig doggedly in his wake, while Barry seated himself and glanced about him.

In a shadowy corner an old bound stoop with drooping ears and one paw lifted as though to advance and the sergeant looked twice before he discovered that it was an ancient and sadly moth-eaten specimen of the taxidermist's art.

Griswold returned presently in the tattered dressing gown and flapping slippers.

"Let us get this farce over as quickly as possible, if you please."

"Do you know any of the other occupants of this house?"

"Personally, no, and I do not want to," retorted Griswold. "I have no use for any of them."

"You did not, then, know Mrs. Vane?"

"Most assuredly not! I never spoke to the woman in my life! There was outraged dignity in the disclaimer.

"Not that I am aware of anything to her discredit, but I know nothing about her at all."

"What can you tell me of the other tenants here?" Craig asked.

Griswold licked his thin lips avidly as though over a choice morsel of gossip.

"The young man Ladd has frequently called upon Mrs. Vane, and at least once I have seen Miss Shaw issuing from her apartments."

"From Mrs. Vane's, you mean?" Barry interposed quickly.

"When was that? About three weeks ago?"

"Three days ago!" corrected Griswold with emphasis. "I am positive it was Tuesday, because I am rarely late at getting to my office, but on the previous night I had suffered an attack of indigestion which kept me awake and it was quite 10 o'clock in the morning when I came downstairs and saw the Shaw girl coming out of the apartment on the floor below. I did not see Mrs. Vane."

CHAPTER IV
Craig was so visibly dumbfounded at the unexpected contradiction of Miss Shaw's testimony that his fellow sergeant continued in command of the situation.

"You mean, Mr. Griswold, that Miss Shaw had been alone in Mrs. Vane's studio Tuesday morning?" he asked in the diffident tone which to those who knew him portended an important point in the examination of a witness.

"By no means!" Griswold stirred irritably in his chair. "That scrub-woman was there, Mrs. McGrath, who looks after some of the apartments in the house."

"You're a widower, I understand, Mr. Griswold?" asked Craig.

"My wife's been dead for fourteen years, if it's any of your business!" snapped the other.

"I understand that you deny having heard the shot—" began Craig, but Griswold interrupted.

"I have stated that I did not. I was asleep until the id—Professor Semyonov clamored at my door."

"You did not come down immediately, Mr. Griswold?" Barry made his second point quietly.

"What finally decided you to appear upon the scene of the murder at all?"

"I did not reply to that banging upon my door because I fancied it might be some practical joke of that young man on the second floor, Gordon Ladd, although I have never exchanged a word with him."

It was self-evident that nothing further could be gotten from him. In the hall outside the officer approached.

"The lady on the top floor, she's been down twice asking for you," he observed impartially to the two. "I didn't think you'd want to be disturbed in there, but it seems there's something she forgot to tell you awhile back."

At that moment the pale, bobbed head of Miss Shaw appeared over the banisters two flights above and, seeing them, she came hastily and silently down.

"I don't want to waste your time," she began a trifle breathlessly, "but something escaped my memory and I told you an unintentional falsehood. The matter is quite trivial and irrelevant, but I do not care to have the least misunderstanding about this."

"Here I told you that I had not entered Mrs. Vane's studio since my call upon her until tonight it was not strictly true, although I hold no communication with her. A few days ago, when passing her door, she was out there and I asked her if might take a peep at the portrait."

"That's all right, Miss Shaw! Honest relief shone in Craig's eyes. "It's as well that you did tell us and if anything else comes to your mind, no matter how unimportant it may seem to you, just call up police headquarters and ask for me, Sergeant Craig or for Sergeant Barry here. We'll see that you're kept out of it as much as we can."

"Thank you, I'm sure that you will, sergeant," she responded with a nod that although still dignified, was almost cordial. "Good night."

She vanished up the stair and as the two sergeants continued downward Craig remarked confidentially to his companion.

"Ain't women funny? Did you see how her manner changed all of a sudden when she thought she had got herself in wrong? 'Twas nothing, that visit of hers to the Vane woman's studio after all, but it's a good thing she told us after Griswold mentioned it, for we might have gone off on some wrong track entirely. Do we get after young Mr. Ladd now?"

man's studio after all, but it's a good thing she told us after Griswold mentioned it, for we might have gone off on some wrong track entirely. Do we get after young Mr. Ladd now?"

"WHAT THE DEVIL DO YOU MEAN?" HE BEGAN FURIOUSLY.

"Yes," Barry replied as they passed the tragically vacant rooms of the dead woman. "If he knew Mrs. Vane as Griswold says, we ought to get something worth while at last."

Gordon Ladd was anticipating their coming with an eagerness which he made no attempt to conceal.

"You're headquarters men, aren't you?" he demanded. "For heaven's sake, come in and tell me if you've found out anything! Those chaps from the local precinct are dubs, and I'm almost mad over this thing! Right this way; you'll find cigars and things on that stand."

"You knew Mrs. Vane, Mr. Ladd?" It was more a statement than a question as Barry seated himself.

"Knew her?" Good Lord, I—I!" The young man controlled himself by a visible effort and added lamely:

"Yes, I have known her for some time, several years in fact, and although she had a host of friends, I think I can claim to be one of the closest of them to her. It's the sheer impossibility of this thing, gentlemen, which has driven me nearly mad. I know that—that she was shot. I saw her body, and yet I would be more ready to believe that a bolt from heaven struck her down than a bullet sped from a human hand!"

"Why?" This time the question came as sharply as the report of a pistol itself upon the outburst of nerves stretched beyond the breaking point, and Gordon Ladd cast discretion to the winds.

"Because she was alive and will an instant almost before that shot must have been fired! I saw her, I spoke to her, I—I!" Too late the young man realized the slip he had made, and his face turned livid, but hastily he made an effort to retrieve his error.

"It must have been the closing of my own door here when I returned that muffled the shot so that I did not hear it."

"When you returned from where?" Craig leaned forward suddenly.

That he had made such an error was instantly apparent for the length of his accusatory speech had given the ordinary well-poised young man an opportunity to place himself in a measure upon his guard, and his reply came in a coldly collected tone.

"You are mistaken, sergeant—or whatever your rank may be termed. When I said that I returned I meant that I had only then returned from the Mountaineer on East Ninth St., where I had dined and spent the earlier part of the evening."

Craig turned in frank appeal to the larger experience of his colleague and Barry resumed the interruption.

"Will you tell us, Mr. Ladd, just exactly what did happen last evening, from the time you left the house where you dined until from your apartment here you heard Officer Boyle hammering upon the entrance below?" he asked in a courteously persuasive tone.

MOTHER, QUICK! GIVE CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP FOR CHILD'S BOWELS

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for a genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "CALIFORNIA" or you may get a imitation fig syrup.—Adv.

The Greatness That Endures

Ever since the world began, to one austere quality men and nations have ceaselessly aspired.

With eyes fixed beyond the foreground of temporary triumphs, men seek the greatness that endures.

In statecraft, in art, in literature, in science and in industry, the goal is eternally the same.

Superficial brilliancy, the might of a moment, is cheap and plentiful enough.

Profound achievement, the leadership that lasts, is lone and priceless as the stars.

Every day of every year a builder rises whose work bears the promise of greatness.

But the brief success, the single and sensational effort, never is sufficient evidence of genius.

Only by sustained achievement over a period of years is the title to greatness established.

Once in a generation, perhaps, the true and unmistakable leader appears.

Boldly, his work forces itself in upon the consciousness of the world as masterful, fundamental, unique.

No amount of denial or doubt or detraction, no testing passage of years, dim his original greatness in the slightest.

Steadily, the evidence of his genius grows, and the renown of his name grows with it.

The whole eager sentiment and support of the world unite triumphantly behind him.

The world lauds his leadership, but more than his leadership it admires the dependability of his powers, the assurance that it can definitely count upon them as a standard for the world to follow.

Applauding the leader, the world applauds itself—the undying fire in itself which lights the age-old quest for enduring greatness.

Great names of all time, in every sphere of human effort, all know the reward of eminence and all bear witness to the eternal truth.

The genuine leader cannot die. His fame is immovable and immortal as the rocks. He lives steadily on, he survives because the power of his work is permanent.

True greatness inevitably endures. Enduring achievement alone is great.

Joseph Lewis, Well Known Foreman for the Chicago Surface Line, Relates a Remarkable Story of His Recovery.

Was So Bad Off After Seven Years of Suffering He Couldn't Hit a Lick for Two Months — Health Restored By Tanlac.

Joseph S. Lewis, 4655 Race avenue, general foreman for the Chicago Surface Line, Ogden and 22nd Sts., relates a remarkable experience with Tanlac. Here is his statement:

"Tanalac has not only put me back on the job in fine health, but I really believe it saved my life. I had suffered from stomach trouble for seven years and two years ago I came near going under for good. I was so badly affected that when I lay down at night I had trouble getting my breath. I couldn't eat without suffering so I just went all to pieces. I could not walk any distance and was in such a bad fix I had to stay off my job for two months. I could not sleep over an hour for my heart just seemed to give out. I got to where I could not even go to my office or do anything. I had about given up hope and all my friends thought I had about reached the end of my way.

"In March I began taking Tanlac and from the first few doses I began to improve. In two weeks from the day I started taking it I came back to my office and have been working regular ever since. I have gained sixteen pounds and feel so fine that I am able to stand a game of baseball with the boys. Since my stomach trouble is gone my heart beats as regular and strong as ever and I sleep like a log. There's nothing too good I can say for Tanlac and I want the people to know what it has done for me."

NOTE—Tanalac Vegetable Pills are an essential and vitally important part of the Tanlac treatment. You cannot hope to get the most satisfactory results from Tanlac without first establishing a free and regular movement of the bowels. Tanlac Vegetable Pills are absolutely free from calomel and are sold on a positive guarantee to give satisfaction.

Tanalac is sold in Dixon by Thomas Sullivan and the leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

LEE CENTER PUPILS FORM BOOSTER CLUB TO EQUIP AUDITORIUM

Fine Spirit Shown By Young People of Community.

(BY MAUDE FROST.)

A meeting of the Cicero Literary society was held Friday afternoon, Jan. 6th. Officers for the coming semester were elected as follows:

President—Miss Dunton.
Vice President—Miss Mary Wellman.

Secretary and Treasurer—Mr. Lyman.
Program Critic—Miss Grace Wellman.

Censor—Miss Florence Frost.
Librarians—Miss Alta Jones and Mary Lawrence.

Reporter—Miss Maude Frost.
The former program critic had charge of the literary exercises which contained the following numbers:

Reading—Miss Mary Lawrence.
Theme—Miss Florence Frost.

Victrola Selections.
Story—Miss Phyllis Connibear.

"School News"—Miss Maude Frost.
A Poem—a drill given by a number of the girls.

The next meeting of the society will be held Friday, Jan. 20th, at 2 p. m. During the meeting the above named officers will be installed. The new critic is planning a Benj. Franklin program with extra numbers. Visitors welcomed.

Monday, Jan. 9, Mr. Conrad the County Y. M. C. A. Secretary visited our school and gave us a half hour of instruction in games.

Under the suggestion and guidance of the teachers a new organization, the "Booster's Club" was formed, Jan. 10th. The object of the club is to raise money for the high school and at the same time eliminate expenses, and to boost high school programs for the rest of the school year.

Seven members of the high school met together as a committee representing the four classes of the school. Every one in high school is a booster but the seven committeemen are leading boosters.

The club aspires to build and pay for stage and stage necessities where by we may be able hereafter to present our entertainments in the high school building and in that way dispense with rent expenses. In building the aim is to build a movable stage that may be removed when not in use and re-erected for use in the regular programs of the club.

The club also plans to present entertainment programs to the public for the benefit of the school library fund.

ABE MARTIN

Next t' buyin' th' right size night shirt we'll bet th' hardest thing is findin' a present for a rich wife. It's just as disastrous t' mail a paste board box full o' ripe persimmons under Will Hays as it ever wuz under Burleson.

The booster officers were elected from the committee as follows:
Exalted Big Booster—Miss Alta Jones.

Assistant Exalted Big Booster—Miss Grace Wellman.

Royal Anti-Knocker—Percy Berry.

A second meeting of the committee was held Monday, Jan. 15th, after school to decide upon a plan for the first program to elect a new committeeman in place of Mr. Berry and to elect a new Royal Anti-Knocker.

Floyd Pomeroy is the new committeeman and James Jones holds the office of Royal Anti-Knocker.

In regard to the program the committee decided that the Senior and Junior classes should combine in presenting a one-act farce and that the Sophomore and Freshman classes should do the same. The intermission between acts will be filled with extra numbers selected from the high school as a whole.

A basket ball game was played between the Dixon second team and the Lee Center High school team at the Dixon High school building Friday evening, Jan. 13th. The score was 11 to 10 in favor of Dixon. It may be a little disappointing to lose so close a game but it is not discouraging when lost to such real sportsmen as we find in the Dixon High schools. We're with you, Dixon.

A "Radio Club" has been organized for those interested in wireless, and is putting a receiving station in the school for the benefit of and at the expense of its members. The officers were elected as follows:

President—Paul March.
Vice President—Ferdinand Jeanblanc.

Secretary—Raymond Degner.
Treasurer—Floyd Pomeroy.

The latest meeting was held Jan. 10th, for the purpose of discussing and deciding questions concerning the buying of a storage battery, and the taking in of members outside of the school. It was decided that they would postpone buying the battery until after the coming in of the proceeds of the first "Booster Club" program. They also postponed receiving members outside of the high school until better organized.

The constitution for the high school Athletic club has been completed and has been presented to the club. The officers of the club were previously elected:

President—Miss Mary Lawrence.
Vice President—Raymond Degner.
Secretary & Treasurer—Geo. Hinks.

Best Cough Mixture Is Home Made

Acts With Speed — Loosens the Phlegm—Stops the Irritation and Coughing Closes

FINE FOR CHEST COLDS TOO AND IS CHEAPLY MADE AT HOME

When you can make, in two minutes, a world beating remedy that acts directly on the membrane and often overnight causes stubborn coughs and even hard chest colds to disappear, why trifle with things that will probably disappoint?

Hawking and snuffling and also soreness of the mucous membrane go and you will feel fine in almost no time.

Just get one ounce of Parmit (double strength) add to it a little sugar and enough hot water to make a half pint and you've got an inexpensive remedy better than you can buy ready mixed.

Its soothing, heady action on the membrane is the reason so many people use it for Catarrh and acute nasal colds.

Fixings of Rich in Russ Peasants' Huts

Kursk, Russia, Jan. 17.—Trappings of civilization are finding strange uses in the peasant huts of Russia. City folks who have fled to rural districts in search of bread and peace have frequently been compelled to trade their belongings to the peasants for food, and have found customers in Ivan Ivanovich and his family, who like the glitter and gloss of the fixings of gentility. Frequently, however, they have little idea how to use the articles which come to them in exchange for milk and flour.
An American who recently visited a village near this city saw a magnificent concert grand piano in one room of a hut which sheltered a peasant family of six. The family's cooking utensils were staked on top of the piano and a small pig was tied to one of the legs.
Under the iron which hung in one corner of the room the visitor saw a number of glittering objects which on closer inspection proved to be the silver fittings from a man's toilet case. The handsome Russia leather case from which the toilet articles had been taken was lying on the floor filled with cow feed.

Thinking of Tomorrow

Q If by some magic the curtain of the future might be drawn back and you could see life as it will be ten or twenty years from today — where would you be?
Q You know the answer. The men and women who will then have the most independence and influence in our community will be the ones who today think and plan most wisely for the tomorrows — and hold themselves ready to take advantage of every opportunity that comes.
Q Nothing will help you more, five or ten years from now, than the dollars you can save by starting today — and you can save best by getting some bank to co-operate with you. As members of the Federal Reserve Banking System we are prepared to co-operate with you in every way. Let us show you how to save and to make your money work for you.
